Policy

It is the policy of the University of Wisconsin-River Falls that every employee, student and visitor be afforded a safe and healthful working environment within the scope of available resources. Risk Management has the assumption of responsibility for recognizing, measuring and controlling the exposures to loss of both human life and property which are created by the activities of the University.

UW-River Falls will strive to operate a risk management program that is consistent with UW System, State, and Federal requirements. The Risk Management Officer (RMO) is responsible for managing the program by developing and maintaining risk management policies, procedures, standards and forms, arranging applicable training, and by initiating risk identification, mitigation and control. It is important to note that program management and oversight is a university-wide responsibility that calls for the active involvement of all faculty, staff and students in connection with regulations and methods relating to their personal safety and well-being.
