MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING

Between

Zhejiang International Studies University, P.R.C.

And

The University of Wisconsin – River Falls, U.S.A.

Zhejiang International Studies University and the University of Wisconsin – River Falls agree to consider academic, research and program collaboration that may include the following areas:

a. Faculty Exchange Program: Both institutions agree to consider the exchange of their faculty members for a specific period on terms and conditions to be mutually agreed.

b. Student Exchange Program/Special Students: Both institutions agree to consider the exchange of students between institutions for a specific period and courses of study on terms and conditions to be mutually agreed.

c. Joint Research: Both institutions agree to consider joint faculty and/or student research programs in areas of common interest.

d. Dual Degree Programs: Both institutions may explore dual degree programs at both the undergraduate and graduate level whereby students study partly at both universities and receive a degree from both.

e. Other Mutual Interests: Both institutions agree to collaborate on other areas of academic and programmatic interests that may be mutually beneficial.

Additional specifics related to the initiatives addressed in this MOU will be articulated as desired in a written agreement(s) and shall serve as addendum(s) to this MOU.

This MOU shall come into force and effect from the date of signing and shall be valid for a period of five years. This MOU is extendable for further periods on mutual review and agreement.
The parties hereto have duly executed and delivered this agreement.

Signed: 21 September 2010

Lu Linyue
President
Zhejiang International Studies University
Hangzhou, China, P.R.C.

Dean Van Galen
Chancellor
University of Wisconsin – River Falls
River Falls, Wisconsin, U.S.A.