Revised December 2012
Narrative to Proposed Changes to the Crop Science Minor Curriculum
September 2015

The Plant and Earth Science Department proposes changing the curriculum of the Crop Science Minor. We feel the current curriculum is overly restrictive in specifying particular courses and somewhat out-of-date. One course, CROP 260, is now a 3-credit course rather than a 2-credit course. The new curriculum provides significantly greater flexibility for students and requires a total of 21 credits rather than the previous 24. We believe the proposed curriculum will still provide students a critical base agronomic knowledge, applied information and experiences tailored more closely to their area of interest. The current and proposed changes to the minor are shown below. Curricular changes are shown in red.
