Rising to Distinction

Falcon Scholars

a unique partnership between donors and students
Arlin and Marilyn Albrecht

Arlin and Marilyn Albrecht funded the first challenge when the Falcon Scholars program was inaugurated in 2012. Within months, more than 100 donors responded to the challenge to fully fund the first four years of the Falcon Scholars program.

Each year, Arlin and Marilyn attend the Falcon Scholars reception on Academic Day to meet these students.

“The quality of the students is simply amazing,” Arlin said. Marilyn, recipient of the first scholarship ever awarded by the UWRF Foundation in 1984, echoes the sentiment and adds, “I’m always touched by the gratitude shown by the students.” Their second major gift to Falcon Scholars to help create the Falcon Scholars Match is a reflection of their belief that an investment in a UWRF education is a solid investment in the future.

Greg and Donnette Wheelock
The seed for giving back started at a Stratton Hall mailbox in 1980 when sophomore Donnette Diers found a receipt saying her tuition, dorm and food expenses for the following two quarters were paid in full. An anonymous donor had contacted UWRF to find out how much amount Donnette owed, then paid her bill.

“What an amazing thing it was knowing someone believed so much in my future, they would help pay for my college!” Donnette remarked. Donnette and her husband Greg, also a student at the time, were both first-generation college students, paying for it with a combination of jobs, on-campus work study positions, scholarships, financial aid and student loans. The generosity of that anonymous donor so impacted the couple that they began giving to UWRF as soon as they could after graduating.

Over the years, they have established a named endowed scholarship, supported the Falcon Center project, and were the first to answer the Albrecht Challenge for Falcon Scholars. As they look back on their time at UWRF and reflect on their success in life, they give much credit to their UWRF education and the professors who knew their students as well as their subjects, and were willing to provide individualized attention in small classes.

Knowing that many of today’s UW-River Falls students are still first-generation college students from lower- to middle-income families, Greg and Donnette are happy to assist other young people in succeeding. A few years ago, the Wheelocks discovered who the anonymous donors were. They sent them a thank you letter, informing them how their gift had grown exponentially over the years as the Wheelocks went on to support education and UWRF in particular.

“It is a privilege to share the results of our hard work and successful business by donating to help others get a good education,” Donnette said. Greg is happy to “pay it forward.” They challenge you to do the same!

Wayne Peterson Estate

Wayne Peterson lived on his family’s farm and was a regular contributor to the UWRF Foundation. He supported scholarships for many students from his local high school to attend UWRF and other UW campuses.

“Wayne had a real passion for the kids of Glenwood City and wanted them to succeed,” said his friend and financial advisor Joan Bartz.

When Wayne passed away in February 2015, he left a large portion of his estate to the UWRF Foundation. His estate representatives requested that the proceeds be used to continue to support UWRF students through Falcon Scholars.

Bartz noted that “joining the Wheelocks and the Albrechts in creating the Million Dollar Match is exactly the kind of thing Wayne would have done. He always wanted to be part of something big and bold, but he never wanted to be in the limelight. How wonderful that his legacy will always exist at a university that he loved so much.”
